Traders Boot Camp: Lessons in Long-Term Success from a Professional Trader

October 04, 2012

Dear trader,

We know you get many solicitations to attend "new" trading seminars.

We see them, too.

But what if you were invited to come learn from a professional full-time trader who ...

*Has achieved an average annual return of +41.6% ...
(independently verified by auditors using 18 years of IRS statements)*

Has been described as
"The greatest trader you've never heard of."

... and ...

Is committed to working with you in a small group to guide you personally in how to make a living as trader.

If that sounds different, then please read on ...

It's true: In one way, Peter Brandt is a pretty ordinary guy – fun, likeable, someone you'd like to meet at a party. But in another way, Peter is far from ordinary, because ...

Peter Brandt is maybe the most successful trader you'll ever have the chance to meet.

At the same time, Peter is so low-key that he is often introduced as "the greatest trader you've never heard of."

EWI's president, Robert Prechter, remembers when he first watched him work:

"During the 1980s, market timing gurus were vying for first place in the various tables of rankings in Commodity Traders Consumer Report. I was often in the top three during those years, and when I wasn't at the top, the #1 guy was usually Peter Brandt. And unlike everyone else, he was doing it with real money." – Robert Prechter

Peter's track record speaks for itself. It reveals a degree of success that very few traders realize.

If you meet the course requirements this highly exclusive, small-group trading boot camp may be right for you - (the average attendee should have $500,000 or more in trading capital and be serious about trading full-time as a profession or to supplement their income and have 3-5 years market experience),

No gimmicks. No "black box." Just real instruction from a real successful trader.

Chances are that you've visited elliottwave.com before. You know we don't offer investment schemes or black boxes. That's because we understand the true challenge for most traders is overcoming their own erratic emotions.

EWI endorses this course because it's unlike any other we've attended. Put simply, Peter's boot camp is the real deal, because Peter is the real deal. Eighteen years of IRS tax records prove his success as a professional trader. That's why he accepts only serious traders – with serious trading accounts – into his exclusive boot camp. That's why past attendees include international commodity traders, entrepreneurs, hedge fund managers and investment bankers. And frankly, that's why Peter prices his boot camp a little more than the others, at $7,900, which represents the risk of loss of an average student's trade. Because, quite honestly, if you cannot afford to lose $7,900 on a trade – or invest $7,900 to become a better trader – this course is probably not for you.

A Personal Message From Peter Brandt

It is hard to describe Trader's Boot Camp because it is a holistic experience and cannot be easily converted to a set of bullet points. I don't teach methods. I attempt to tie together complex principles and concepts that can create consistently profitable trading endeavors.

Testimonials

"I would absolutely recommend this course to other traders! It was a fantastic experience. Expect fundamental assumptions and perceptions about trading to be challenged deeply."

"How in the world...?"

Exactly how did Peter Brandt make 41% per year while only 1/3 of his trades worked out? That's what his exclusive 3-day traders boot camp is designed to teach you.

Here's what you will learn:

For 9 of every 10 traders, the #1 problem is not "access to the latest market data." It's not the need for "better analysis." More screens on your desk will not transform you into a winner.

The #1 problem for 90% of traders is the failure to fully understand the dynamics of risk and to control their emotions.

Nail-biting, losing sleep, worrying sick over a trade, jumping into a trade with no risk-management or exit strategy, having a strategy but not following it, letting losers run, cutting profits short – these are all recipes for failure.

You think you are immune to these errors? Take an honest look at your trading history; every big loss you see came from one of them.

Even if only SOME of this applies to you, it's time to learn how to avoid those old mistakes.

Now, the truth is that you can't re-wire your brain in a weekend; Peter Brandt knows that from decades of experience. This traders boot camp does NOT promise overnight results.

What Peter does promise is to teach you how to tame and manage the enemy inside – through personality testing, face-to-face classroom instruction, trading discussions and one-on-one assignments.

Here is what this 3-day experience will do for you:

- Help you further understand your current approach to trading and its strengths and shortcomings.
- Show you -- based on decades of experiences -- just how HUGE of a role your emotions play in your long-term success.
- Force you to recognize and repair weaknesses in your trading plan. Help you create a new trading plan, if needed.
- Challenge you with questions that few aspiring traders ever think to ask – but which professional traders find answers to every day.
- Explain how to control risk – the most important component for your success – like a professional.
- Destroy trading myths (like one that selecting "the right" trade is key to profits). You'll see many "sacred cows" slaughtered on the altar of reality.
- Detail the 14 key components of a comprehensive trading plan – and help you adapt each one to work for you.
- Identify the common traps that snare even highly successful traders – and give you real-world solutions to avoiding these traps.
- Follow up with you personally before and after the boot camp. You get one-on-one phone calls with Peter, tips for your old and new trading plans, and even emails about potential market opportunities.

You'll see the specifics of Peter's trading plan, too. But most important of all, his emphasis during the "Traders Bootcamp" is to direct you toward the trading plan best suited for your personality and your trading style.
