Hi and good afternoon,

Nicely done; we nailed it today. Like I said in our mid-day email, it looked like today's play still had legs... and my oh my did it ever... it not only saw another big double-digit run but it closed at the High of the Day, 0445 (about four and a half cents), up over 17%. Volume was about 1.2Mln as activity was high once again.

Another awesome day; "Gratz" to those who took the opportunity to benefit.

We're on fire right now and want to keep the streak rolling. Therefore, tonight we have something that we know you are going to love... a New Low Float, Subbie Play with insane growth potential!

We've seen a triple-digit runner every week this year except this one... but we still have a couple of days left. So let's get to it:

Tonight's new profile is

Definitive Rest (DRMC)

Company website
www.numetalstech.com

Quote & Indicators
www.barchart.com/quotes/stocks/DRMC

Definitive (once engaged in the manufacturing of mattresses) is now in the Aerospace and Industrial Metals Sector. The Company recently acquired NU Metals Technology and formed its new "high-tech" CNC (Computer Numerical Control) Division.

DRMC may not be rocket scientists but they build the materials that rocket scientists use to build rockets... and that's pretty darned awesome.

In fact, DRMC manufactures a lot of very cool, high-end metals that you have to check out... so be sure to visit the website link above.

DRMC has proven it can produce numbers... and big ones at that:

- Revenues topped 897K Dlrs with a gross profit of over 229K Dlr for the year ending Dec. 2013.
- In the most recent Q dated Sept. 2014, DRMC reported they had total assets valued at nearly 997K Dlrs... just shy of 1Mln!

Pretty impressive for a subbie that closed today at just 0054... about half of a cent!

Perhaps even more impressive is DRMC's chart... it's a thing of beauty:

Looking at these indicators, the explosive potential of this subbie seems pretty clear.

But that's just the beginning; the metal working business alone is valued well into the Blns of Dlr and includes several high tech sectors including Aerospace and Commercial Aircraft as well as industry giants Boeing and NASA. Take a look at this recent news released by DRMC regarding Boeing:

DRMC To Enter Billion Dollar Metals Work Industry for Commercial Aircraft and Aerospace Industries

Through its recent acquisition of NU Metals Technology/ Metals operations as well as the formation of its CNC Metals Division for CNC Machining, the Company has placed themselves in a perfect position to take advantage of the Bln Dlr Metals Work Industry.

Nu Metals Technology is a provider of Hi-Grade Metals and tooling solutions for the manufacturing of Aerospace components.

Their metals division will provide an array of diverse metals products. Its sales group will have access to an extensive network of metals suppliers within its database, and plans on being able to find the specific metals requested by their customers.

To those that were previously unaware, CNC Machining is a process used in the manufacturing sector that involves the use of computers to control machine tools. Tools that can be controlled in this manner include lathes, mills, routers and grinders.

Their CNC Division is focused on some enormous markets including Ship Building, Military, Crude Oil and Aerospace.

Take a look at some of these industry highlights and you will see just how massive this opportunity is:

- According to a research report by Boeing, Commercial Aviation is expected to continue its growth over the next 20 years, with world passenger traffic growing at 5% annually.
- The report forecasts a long-term demand for 35,280 new airplanes, valued at 4.8 Trillion Dlr.
- The report projects that 14,350 of these new airplanes (41 percent of the total new deliveries) will replace older, less efficient airplanes, reducing the cost of air travel and decreasing carbon emissions. The remaining 20,930 airplanes will be for fleet growth, stimulating expansion in emerging markets and innovative airline business models.
- The US aerospace industry is expected to reach 100Bln Dlr by 2016 with a CAGR of 6.9% over the next 5 years.
- In 2009, world production value of machine tools came to around 37.5Bln Euros.

The Company has identified a huge opportunity for revenue in these sectors and, with the recent completion of their acquisition, is ready to capitalize immediately

"We are looking forward to implementing the new business plan where new investment and business opportunities will open the doors to new and diverse markets involving Metals Technology" says Juan Carlos Murga, the CEO of DRMC.

He added, "This is only the beginning of many other business ventures that DRMC is developing to expand our portfolio and to provide a bright future to our shareholders."

With the recent drop in fuel prices, there isn't a more exciting industry to be in than Aerospace. Major airlines have seen their share prices soar over the past few months and as profits grow, airlines are now looking to add and update their current fleets.

DRMC's move into the Aerospace sector couldn't have come at a better time; everything seems to be lining up perfectly for us to see DRMC fly.

The Company plans to focus on growth and value to bring positive investment to the company and their shareholders. The new CNC Division is only the beginning of many other divisions DRMC plans to open in the near future.

Conclusion:

At just 0054, with indicators screaming Green, Green, Green and giant acquisition news hitting the wire DRMC has a lot going for them right now... we could see a breakout at any moment.

Taking all of these factors into account you may conclude that we are faced with a remarkable situation this evening... a subbie, high tech, low float with a beautiful chart...

... does it get any better than that?

Currently just north of half-a-cent even a slight move could translate to enormous percentages.

So get started on researching this exciting subbie right away.

Remember, we always encourage you to do further research. Never take our word for it, read our disclaimer to see why, and of course always consult a professional.

Just because a situation looks great things can still go wrong and often do. Be smart and protect yourself.

Enjoy your afternoon,

The Freak
